

Runners will have gorillas in their midst

LOVE is in the air for these three dating agency staff who are taking part in The Great Gorilla Run – dressed as bride, groom and cupid gorillas.

Kerry Walker, Anne Stringer and Theresa Whitworth from RSVP in High Street, Burton Latimer, are taking part in the charity run in London today to raise funds for the protection of gorillas in Africa.

Thousands of runners will don gorilla outfits to raise awareness of the plight of the animals in Rwanda. Sponsor money will be used to create wildlife jobs.

Mrs Stringer, who is the director of the dating firm, saw the gorillas for herself when she visited Rwanda in 2005. She convinced her colleagues to take part in the run.

Mrs Walker said: "Although it's only 4.5 miles, it's hard running in the suits because they are so hot."

Anyone who would like to sponsor them can telephone 0800 5427262.

■ MONKEY BUSINESS – staff from RSVP dating agency dress up to take part in the Great Gorilla Run. From left, Theresa Whitworth, Kerry Walker and Anne Stringer.

ET picture by Alan Castle: 190907-24-03